COUPLES CHECKLIST

It has been said that the most important thing a parent can do for their child is to love their spouse.

The questions on this checklist will help you discover if there are concerns or problems that need to be addressed in your marriage or relationship. There is space to add comments or an explanation after each question.

There is one checklist for each partner.

When you have completed your checklist, make time to share and discuss it with your partner. Statements which you or your partner mark “strongly agree” or “agree” are issues or concerns you need to address in order to strengthen your marriage or relationship. Statements which you or your partner mark “maybe” are issues or concerns which you need to discuss further. If necessary, you should ask a professional counselor to help facilitate further discussion.
